Rabbi's Message

Rabbi Josh
Berkenwald

The Shabbat before Purim is given a special name: Shabbat Zakhor - the Shabbat of Remembrance. A second Torah is removed from the ark, with the final musaf reading taken from Deuteronomy. The reading opens with the words zakhor et asher asah-lecha amalek - “remember that which Amalek did to you” and ends with the words lo tishkach - “do not forget.” These expressions, “remember” and “do not forget,” are the bookends around the maftir reading. They mean essentially the same thing. Shabbat Zakhor, with its special maftir, serves as an annual reminder of what Amalek did to our ancestors in the wilderness. The Torah teaches that the Amalekites attacked the weak and defenseless because they did not fear God, and they did not respect human life and human dignity.

But not for the rabbis. In the Talmud (Megillah 18a), zakhor, remember, is understood as the internal process of memory. Lo tishkach, “do not forget,” on the other hand, means that we have to do something active to make sure that we remember. What is that something? For starters, we read this passage every year on the Shabbat before Purim.

Why this Shabbat? Because Haman is a descendent of the Amalekites. Like his ancestors, Haman took advantage of his powerful position to try to destroy the Jewish people, who were a weak, exiled nation within the Persian empire.

We derive another lesson from this special Torah reading as well. In it, we read timcheh et zecher-amalek mitachad hashamayim - “blot out the remembrance of Amalek from under the heavens.” This presents us with something of a conundrum. We are instructed, in no uncertain terms, that we are to “remember” and “not forget” what Amalek did to us. How can we blot out the remembrance of Amalek if we are commanded to never forget what Amalek did?

The way in which we fulfill this instruction is one of the most beloved aspects of Purim. During the reading of the megillah, we listen closely for the reader to recite the name of the villain Haman so that we can use our groggers to drown out his name. According to some traditions, two stones with the carved words Haman and Amalek are mashed together to literally grind out the names.

That we continue to blot out the name of Amalek two thousand years later suggests we have done a pretty good job of remembering. Mere remembering for its own sake, however, is pointless. There is a deeper message that we are meant to internalize. The Torah’s instruction is not to remember Amalek, but to remember what Amalek did. The command to wipe out zekher amalek, the remembrance of Amalek, is a command to wipe out the evil that was characterized by Amalek’s actions. Both in the wilderness as well as in Persia, Amalek exploited the weakness of stragglers and strangers, the poor and defenseless.

How do we blot out the remembrance of Amalek? By not allowing the stragglers in our communities to lag behind. Two of the central mitzvot of this time of year focus our attention on others. The mitzvah of Matanot La'evyonim, gifts of meals to the poor in our community, involves giving a meal to someone who is hungry on the day of Purim. Once again, we will be collecting money at the synagogue throughout Purim in order to purchase meal cards that will be delivered to homeless individuals in our community. The other mitzvah is Maot Chittim, money to help the poor in our community celebrate Passover. This is also a mitzvah that our community has embraced for many years.

As we gather together this month to celebrate Purim, let us remember that it is not just about hearing the megillah, dancing to great music, laughing at the puppet show and the merry-making, and spinning our groggers when we hear You-Know-Who's name.

We will also remember the lesson of zekhira, of memory.

President's Message

David Fernandez

It's March and Purim is on the horizon. Falling this year on Saturday night and Sunday, March 19-20, Purim provides a great opportunity to invite potential new members to one of our funnest and most exciting events. There is something for everyone, from the Megilla reading on Saturday evening, to the second reading, kids' Puppet Show, and Purim Carnival on Sunday. The synagogue should be full of the sounds of the Battle of the Bands, the smells of delicious food wafting from the Sinai kitchen, and the squeals of children young and old enjoying Purim.

I am also thinking about the upcoming Annual Meeting. This year, we at Sinai again have many things for which to be thankful. Unlike many synagogues over the past few years, we have experienced membership growth. Our fundraising efforts, spearheaded by Ed Fields, have exceeded our objectives. The Sinai community continues to grow and flourish.

With all this good news, what could the president possibly be looking for? My pitch is a simple one: get involved. Although a synagogue of slightly over 200 members, we run successful programming comparable to many larger synagogues in the area. This is wonderful for our members, but a challenge for our limited pool of volunteers and staff. Most of our members have enjoyed a Kabbalat Shabbat service and delicious Friday night dinner. Did you know that these meals are prepared by volunteers? As you might imagine, preparing a meal for over 100 people is not a simple undertaking. I know that Cindy Levinson and the dedicated members of the B'tevon Committee could use some additional assistance. Over the past year, we have had many wonderful programs spearheaded by our office staff. However, their workload continues to increase and volunteer burnout is always a concern. It's amazing how helpful even one additional person can be. Our board of directors has been successful this year, but, we are looking for a few dedicated people to join our synagogue's leadership to continue moving Sinai in the right direction.

In addition, we are looking for a few outgoing members to join the membership committee. This will give you an opportunity to spread the word about our community, share with others why you belong and what you and your loved ones gain by being part of the Sinai family.

Should you be interested in being on the membership committee or any other board position, come and visit me during my office hours or feel free to contact me at President@sinai-sj.org.

I look forward to seeing you all at Purim. Chag Sameach.

Nursery School

Shalom,

We had a great turnout at our Open House on Sunday, January 30th, and some families registered their children for the next school year! Of course, we welcome back with open arms our current pre-school age children. If you know of any families who are looking for a wonderful school experience with a very warm and loving staff, please refer them to me. I will be delighted to show them our school and answer their questions and concerns.

We are offering a Drama Enrichment class to our children, led by Sharon Nitzan. The classes will run on Thursdays 1:30-2:15 for children aged 2-5 years old. You can contact me for more information.

The kids have enjoyed creative projects at the Challah Club, our afternoon program; it's so named by one of the kids because all pre-schoolers are "braided" together. We learned about Chinese New Year, and since it is the Year of the Rabbit, we had many bunny-oriented artworks: decorating a giant rabbit, making rabbit ears, and painting pictures of fireworks in red and gold. Now the kids have three New Year's they can celebrate! Gung Hay Fat Choy, everyone!

Our staff will be attending the 4th annual staff development day on Monday, March 7th. I helped plan this program with the directors of the Jewish pre-schools in our area. It will take place at the JCC in Los Gatos. We are flying in a veteran director and founder of Evergreen Community School in Santa Monica. She will be giving a workshop about listening to children from a Jewish perspective: engaging with Head, Heart and Soul. It promises to be an inspirational and informative day that will enhance and enrich our program.

Religious School Grades 3-4: Jewish Culture From Around the World

Sunday, March 27
10:30am-12:00 Noon

3rd and 4th grade religious school parents and students will join us in the social hall to explore Jewish cultures from around the world through cooking, art and music.

Youth Education

Here in the religious school we have been busy learning and celebrating Purim. Each grade has a different focus for every holiday so that we are adding layers to their learning and their Jewish education is not repetitive. I would like to share with you each grade's curriculum:

Kitah Gan:

Our Kitah Gan students will focus on the concept of "hiding" within the Purim story. Queen Esther, in order to save the Jewish people in the Purim story, hid her Jewish identity - her name actually means "hidden." God also seems to be hidden in the story. Our students will discuss how we can see God's miracles in everyday events even when God seems to be absent. They will make masks to wear at the Megillah reading.

Kitah Alef & Bet:

Our Kitah Alef and Bet students will read the story of Purim together and focus on how the story teaches us to have courage to stand up to intolerance. In the Purim story, Esther has to be very courageous to go to the King and tell him to save her people.

Our students will discuss how we can make sure that we show compassion for different religions. They will make their own Scrolls of Esther, emphasizing the values they pull out of the story.

Kitah Gimel & Dalet:

Our Kitah Gimel and Dalet students will learn about different ways that Purim is celebrated around the world. They will look at the tradition of erasing Haman's name. Today we observe this by shaking a grogger, but throughout Jewish history and around the world there were different traditions. For example, in North African Jewish communities they would make sculptures of Haman and destroy them in different ways. Our Kitah Gimel and Dalet will make their own groggers.

Kitah Hey:

Our students in Kitah Hey will focus on learning the four mitzvot of Purim: Kri'at Megilah, reading the scroll of Esther; Mishloach Manot, giving gift baskets to friends and family; Matanot La'Evyonim, giving tzedakah; and the Seudah, or festive meal. They will learn the origin of each mitzvah and discuss how we observe them today.

Kitah Vav:

Our Kitah Vav students will study the historical background of the story of Purim. They will learn about the connection between Haman and Amalek. Haman is believed to be a descendant of Amalek. They will also look at Persian Jewish history leading up to the story of Purim. Kitah Vav will also discuss how the story of Purim has special significance to Persian Jews today.

Kitah Zayin:

Our students in Kitah Zayin explore the hot topics associated with each holiday. For Purim they focus on the tradition of "Ad de-lo yada", drinking during the megillah reading until one doesn't know the difference between Haman and Mordechai. They will discuss the origin of this tradition and how we can make sure it is not taken advantage of.

We Need Your Help!

We culminate our Purim Learning with the Synagogue Megillah reading and Purim Carnival. This year, we are hoping to grow the carnival by having more rides and games for the children to enjoy. We need your help to grow the carnival by inviting friends outside of the shul to come to our event, volunteering at the carnival, and underwriting attractions. For more information about how you can help support the Purim Carnival, contact me at the synagogue. Hope to see you all at shul during Purim!

Todah Rabah to Rina Katzen for her generous subsidy of Second Seder at Sinai.

Meet our Bar Mitzvah

When our young people become B'nei Mitzvah, it is an opportunity for the entire Sinai community to take pride in their accomplishments. This month at Sinai, we celebrate as Lavi Paoletti becomes our newest adult member.

Lavi Paoletti - March 5th

As I got ready for my Bar Mitzvah I had to learn many things. Some of the things were how to read trope, chant trope, and chant some new prayers. It was very hard and I had some moments when it seemed to be all too much. But I powered through it, and am almost ready. I am looking forward to being a Bar Mitzvah because I will be able to make more religious decisions. Also, I get to lead Kiddush and wear a talit. There are also many responsibilities that come with this though. I have to try my hardest to follow all the mitzvot. Also, I am expected to be responsible for the mitzvot I break. I am looking forward to my Bar Mitzvah but there are also many responsibilities that come with it.

The family of our March Bar Mitzvah warmly invites the entire congregation to join them for Shabbat services and to celebrate afterwards with a Kiddush luncheon.

“Tikkun Olam in Dangerous Times: In Search of a Jewish Moral Compass”

You are invited to join Congregation Sinai the weekend of April 8-9 for a stimulating Scholar-in-Residence program. Given what's happening in the streets of Cairo currently, and the tragedy in Tucson at the beginning of the year, we anticipate thought-provoking and lively discussions with Stuart Schoffman.

Friday Night, April 8, 2011, 5:30 pm – 9:00 pm - Community Shabbat Dinner and Lecture
Lively Kabbalat Shabbat service at 5:30 p.m, followed by a delectable dinner at 6:30 p.m.
(reservations required for dinner – see below).
Lecture at 7:30 pm by Stuart Schoffman about “Security, Democracy, and Social Justice:
A View from Jerusalem” followed by a dessert reception. Both the lecture and the dessert are free of charge.

Saturday, April 9, 2011 Shabbat Morning Service and Lecture followed by Kiddush Luncheon Start Shabbat morning off with services beginning at 8:30 a.m. Then, hear Stuart Schoffman's thoughts on “Peace, Anti-Semitism, and Tikkun Olam: A View from the Talmud” at 11 a.m., during a break in Shabbat morning services. Please stay for a hearty Kiddush luncheon following services, during which time Stuart will host an interactive Q&A dialog. Free to all.

Stuart Schoffman is a fellow of the Shalom Hartman Institute and editor of Havruta: A Journal of Jewish Conversation. For more than twenty years, as a writer for the Jerusalem Report and Jewish newspapers in North America, he has combined Jewish scholarship with reportage and analysis of politics, religion and culture. His translations from Hebrew include books by the Israeli authors A.B. Yehoshua, David Grossman, and Meir Shalev. Before making aliya in 1988, he worked as a journalist for Fortune and Time magazines in New York, and as a Hollywood screenwriter. He has taught American history at the University of Texas, and film at the University of Southern California and Tel Aviv University. A native New Yorker, Stuart holds degrees in history from Harvard and Yale. He lectures widely on Jewish and Israeli affairs.

Ritual Committee

We are grateful to everyone who helped evaluate the new High Holiday prayerbook Mahzor Lev Shalem at High Holidays last year, and to those who answered the survey or sent emails. Your responses were enlightening and your many comments showed a great deal of thought and caring. Both the Ritual Committee and the Board found them useful in evaluating the pros and cons of the new mahzor, and helpful in making the decision to adopt Mahzor Lev Shalem for High Holidays this year.

Just a reminder: if you want to order your personal copy of Mahzor Lev Shalem for $36 to study during the year, the deadline is March 21, 2011. Through a generous contribution from Sandy Reischer Greenfield and Rene Reischer Cudahy, in memory of their beloved parents Michael and Ruth Reischer, every seat in our sanctuary will have a copy of the new mahzor at High Holidays this year, so it is entirely optional to have your own copy. If you do want to place an order, please fill out the order form on this page and submit it to the Sinai office by March 21st.

In loving memory of Rose Weiner:

A special todah rabah to Jon and Susan Sweedler who recently made a significant donation to the Kiddush Fund in cherished memory of Rose Weiner, Susan's beloved aunt and long-time Sinai member. Thanks to the Sweedler family's generosity, 20 Sinai Kiddush luncheons will be dedicated to the memory of Aunt Rose.

Rose and her seven siblings (including Susan's mother) grew up in a warm and loving home where Shabbat was a special time for gathering. Shabbat lunch, in particular, was a time when everyone could relax and enjoy each other's company. The food was delicious and guests were welcomed. At Sinai, Rose was also actively involved in bringing people together – often over a meal or a tea. Her warmth and liveliness were assets to the community for many years. We will honor her spirit and her memory each time we enjoy a Shabbat lunch together in remembrance of the special place she held in the hearts of her family and her community.

Y'hi zichra baruch, may her memory be a blessing for us all.

The first Kiddush will be held on March 26th.
